

FARRANS

Farrans Construction Ltd. is one of the largest building and civil engineering contractors in Northern Ireland.

“For us, the adoption of Senubo has made a world of difference. Site operative, engineers and site manager enjoyed greater engagement and communication on the D1 Project. The fact that Senubo allows us to send online updates via SMS, email and web using our existing phones and hardware allowed for easier adoption. We are exploring how Senubo can be embedded in other areas of the business to drive innovation and improve efficiency”

SENUBO
real time from the front line

Senubo is an online platform which allows company networks and groups to communicate centrally using any device. Knowledge workers across multiple locations collaborate and respond in real time.

THE CHALLENGE...

- Maintaining communication with distant team members;
- Recording site activity manually;
- We only get 1 person's perspective;
- Receiving information in real time;
- Encouraging contribution and feedback from everyone;
- Lack of speedy data analysis and access to analytics;
- Remote team management.

...THE SOLUTION

- Senubo rolled out an SMS service for site workers;
- Contributions are now received in real time; files, pictures, comments are just a text message away;
- Snags, hazards and hold ups are reported immediately;
- Progress updates are live and the job overview is clearer;
- Site management can delegate work through the platform or have an input to ongoing projects.

THE DIFFERENCE...

- A digitised version of daily site activity : Conversations, expertise, and daily activities are captured in real time and are available for export or integrating with our other systems;
- Work Smarter: Updates & alerts are posted in real time, this allows us to make better decisions quickly because of the real time nature of the data captured;
- Visibility: Management have a clear top-down view while field workers contribute effortlessly;
- Reporting: Reports are automatically generated and disseminated.
